Indoctrinations:

Too many of us are unaware of the continuous manipulation that emanates from the major institutions in America. Then we go blithely through life with little concern or affront for how much of that information is either false or misleading. While we are an educated people, we are not very critical of those tactics that effect us on a daily basis. Let me point out that virtually all of our information and attitudes are derived from sources outside of one's self.
