0 of 0 review helpful Philosophical contemplation of human existence in the form of graphic novel By Adalinka This is quite unique graphic novel comic It is philosophical contemplation of human existence or nature of man Author asks questions and gives provoking thoughts But every reader may take it in different way since we all see things differently Everything around us changes and we as spectators may What if we are merely shadows our characters defined by a simple inflection of light The realm of possibilities opens up because in our world we are nothing but spectators The Spectators unfolds as a poetic and philosophical introspection on the nature of man Victor Hussenot's palette is awash with subtle color gently carrying the narrative and allowing the reader to envelop themselves in the lyricism of the work Reminiscent of French New Wave Beautiful ethereal hellip Hussenot moves from full page to small frame with fluidity and his style is impressionistic as if portraying a series of shadows come to life Los Angeles Times Hussenot's work combines the colorful geo
